

Didactic approach

Marjo Baeten

Esther Vennekens

Didactic approach-general

Project based educational approach: Entrepreneurial, open-minded, practical approach at bachelor level

Year 1 + 2

- Real life business projects within program
- Problem based learning
- Lectures, excursions and practical training
- Internships at companies, research stations, ngo's, etc. – Learning by doing

Year 3 + 4

- Multi disciplinary minor with business projects
- Internship in The Netherlands
- Internship abroad
- Specialization (business project or individual innovation)
Business assignment

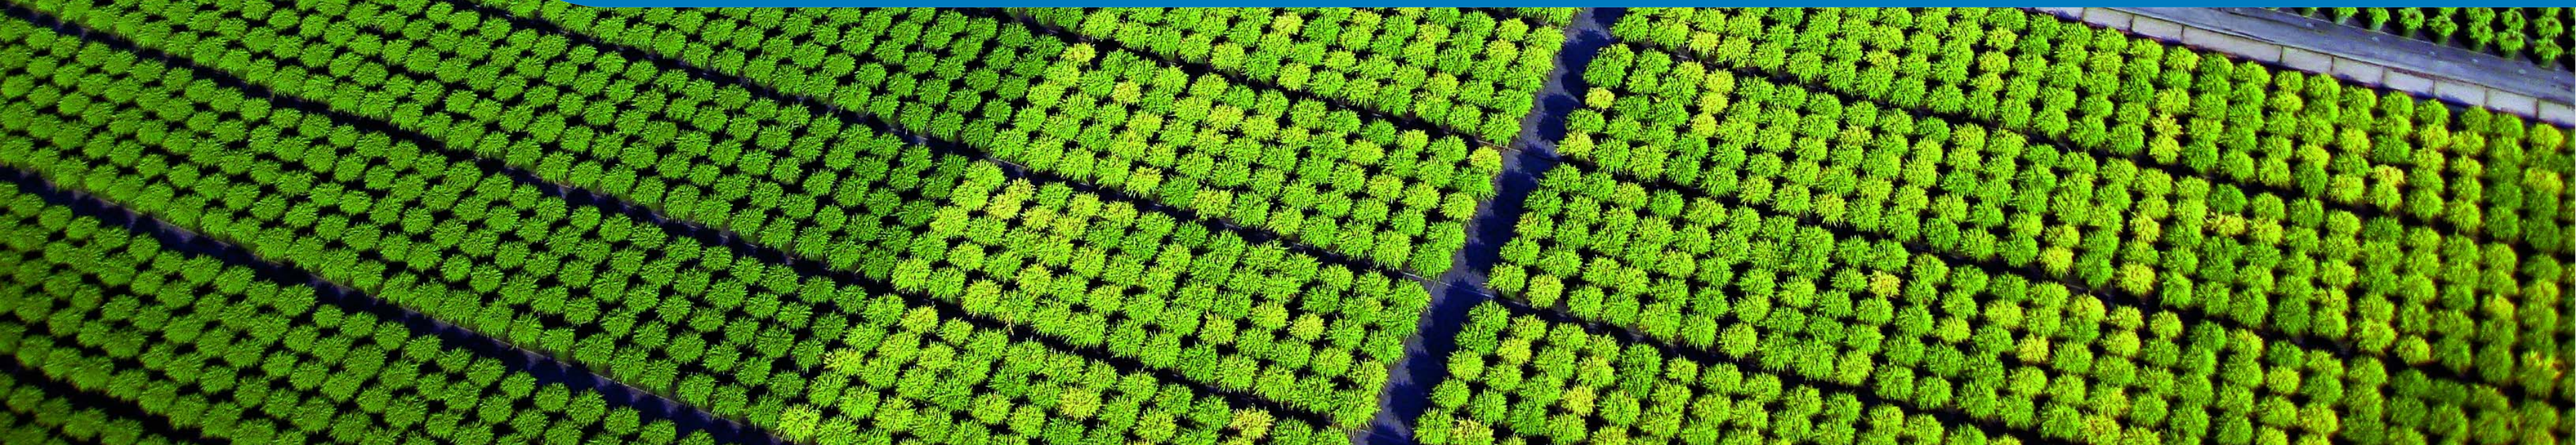

Labour market needs and major societal challenges

Always our starting point!

Train the trainer program

Train the Trainer

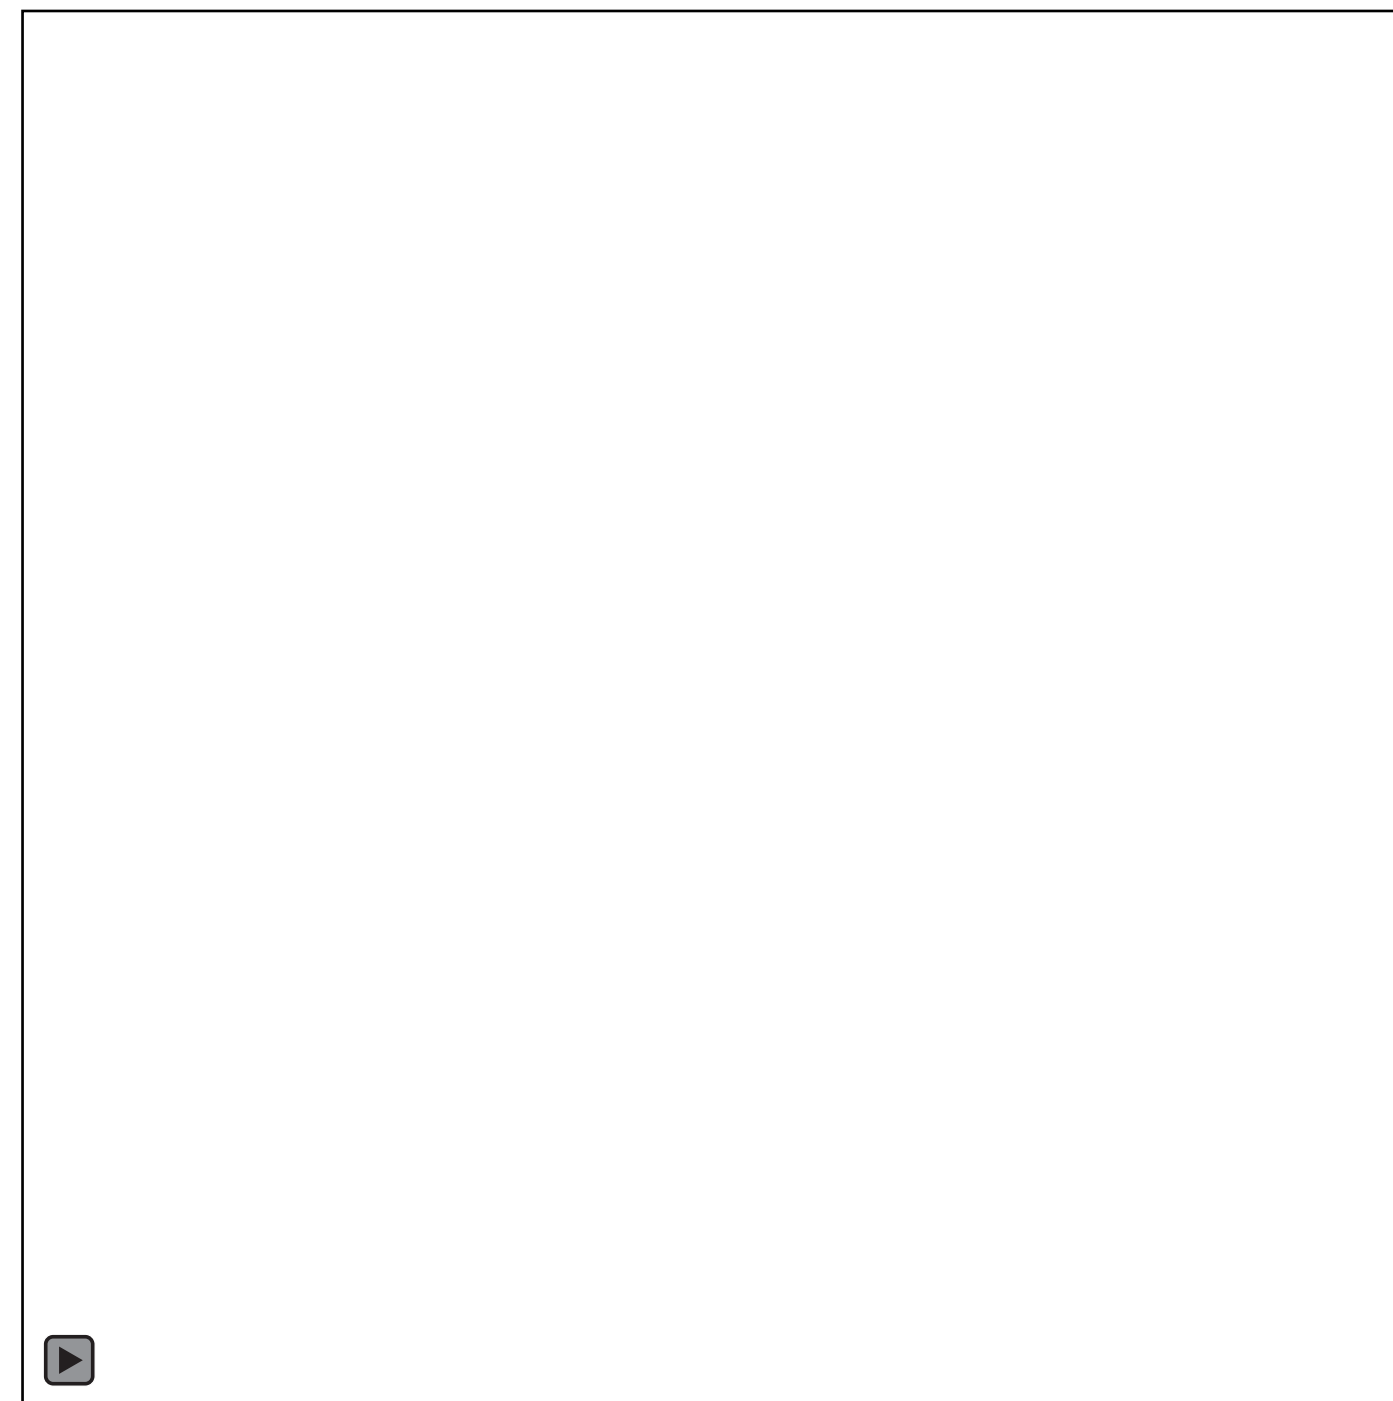

- Different fields of science
 - Landscaping
 - Design
 - Business
 - Biology
 - Food

www.hasuniversity.nl

Train the trainer program

- At HAS University in The Netherlands or at your university / in your country
- Can be combined in a joint project or research program
- 3 up to 10 days for intensive training week
- Group of lecturers (min 3 – max 12)
- Tailor made program, many possibilities to see, experience and learn from experienced consultants / teachers / education experts.
- Share information, excellent places for meetings and workshops

Example of Train the Trainer program at HAS University

- Example of Train the Trainer program at HAS University.
- 13 professionals from Ukraine – 1:50 min -
- In this particular case the training was about Dairy farming and sustainable supply chains and improvement of didactic approach.
- Goal of T-t-T program: Ukrainian universities wanted to learn how to integrate work with real life projects and problem based learning

Questions?